Claims 30-32 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 251. This rejection is set forth in prior Office action, Paper No. 12.

Art Unit: 3662

(11) *Response to Argument

On lines 9-10 of page 8 of Applicant's Appeal Brief, it is stated that "control of an in-flight bullet fired from a rifled barrel that imparts axial spin to the projectile" is subject matter that "was surrendered during prosecution" of the patent that is the subject of this reissue application. In looking at the preambles of independent claims 30 and 32, each states that the claim is directed to use on a "rifle bullet." Claim 30 is directed to an onboard method of generating signals related to the orientation of the bullet, where those signals are used in control of the bullet. Claim 32 is directed to an onboard system for determining the orientation of the bullet, where the determination is used in control of the bullet. Dependent claim 31 is dependent from independent claim 30, so it is directed to the same general subject matter as claim 30. Thus, first, claims 30-32 are directed to onboard (i.e., in-flight) control activity of a rifle bullet. The word onboard must mean "in-flight" in this context in that the control of a motionless bullet is meaningless. Second, any rifle has "a rifled barrel that imparts axial spin to the projectile," so the mere use of the term "rifle bullet" in claims 30 and 32 meets the idea of "a rifled barrel that imparts axial spin to the projectile" that is part of the subject matter that Applicant admits was surrendered. In conclusion, by Applicant's admission on lines 9-10 of claim 8 of Applicant's Appeal Brief, the subject matter of claim 30-32 was surrendered during the prosecution of the patent on which this reissue application is based. Therefore, the rejection of record of claims 30-32 under 35 USC § 251 for recapture is appropriate and should be sustained.

Art Unit: 3662

For the above reasons, it is believed that the rejections should be sustained.

Respectfully submitted,

Bernarr E. Gregory
